

WHAT HAS BEEN THE TROUBLE WITH WHEAT

DAMAGE DONE BY FLY AND COCKLE HAS MADE LOWER PRICES THAN SHOULD PREVAIL

HOW TO BETTER CROP

Milner & Grube Give Interesting Talk on This Year's Wheat Crop and Some Pointers for Seed

There has been considerable comment this year on the quality of the wheat that has been brought to the elevators and sold. Especially has this been the case in Northern Indiana where the Hessian fly worked on the growing wheat last fall and spring. In every field that was infected, the yield was poor, the fly having destroyed so much of the grain that it stood very thin upon the ground, which gave cockle and cheat a good chance to grow and develop to its fullest extent.

One grain of cockle sown with wheat, if not crowded by wheat stalks will stool out and multiply wonderfully, often producing a dozen or more stems each of which with its multiple of pods will produce a large amount of seed. The same is also true of cheat. This accounts for the fact that so much of the wheat brought in by farmers contains so much cockle. The seed wheat when sown last fall, they declare was practically free from cockle, but when harvested and threshed was found to contain an over-abundance of this obnoxious grain.

The mills throughout the country are complaining against cockle in wheat and are discounting the prices paid for such grain as they say cockle makes a poor quality of flour. Farmers in this county are looking to the quality of the seed they are going to sow this year on their farms and are trying to get seed that is free from cockle entirely.

All seed wheat should be cleaned on a first class fanning mill which should take out this weed and all small grains of wheat so as to leave only plump developed grains to be sown. A poor quality of seed sown will yield a poor quality of wheat harvested the next year, and will not command as high a price in the markets.

Some of the wheat brought to the market this year was found to contain nearly one-third cockle and of course it is not to be expected that the highest market price could be paid for such grain. Milner & Grube report that several cars of wheat they shipped out this year were discounted on account of cockle.

PROF. RIZER TO I. U.

Gets Leave of Absence for a Year to Attend the State Institution

Prof. Rizer, at the head of the Bourbon schools for seven years, has concluded to devote a year of study at the State University, Bloomington, Ind., and thereby complete his degree. To that end the board, as newly organized, granted him a year's leave of absence, and Prof. Rizer will enter the institution this coming fall term.

This change in the plans of the Professor necessitated a new man to fill the place and to that end they have secured the services of Prof. Charles C. Trook, Supt. of Bunker Hill, Indiana, schools, and a State Normal product to fill the place.

The Rizer family will accompany the professor to Bloomington, much to the regret of our people who have the most cordial feeling for them, as they are delightful people. No better removal will be a loss to the social and educational circle of the community.—Bourbon News-Mirror.

EAMES-GOGORZA MARRIAGE

It Is Legal in Eyes of Church For Two Sufficient Reasons.

Paris, Aug. 15.—As it is apparent that a controversy has arisen concerning the status of the marriage recently of Mme. Eames, the celebrated singer, to Emilio De Gogorza, the baritone, the statement is made on authority here that in the eyes of the church neither had ever been married before.

Mme. Eames was never baptized, and as a consequence she is looked upon as an infidel. Such being the case her first wedding is not regarded as binding. For this reason she was entitled to embrace catholicism and marry Gogorza. The latter it is pointed out was married previously by a magistrate and this ceremony is not recognized by the church.

C. W. METSKER CANDIDATE FOR LT. GOVERNOR

WELL KNOWN PLYMOUTH EDITOR OUT AFTER IMPORTANT STATE OFFICE ON DEMOCRATIC TICKET

IS TAGGART FOLLOWER

Says He Would be Willing to Precede Over Senate and Appoint Important Committees

Clay W. Metsker, editor of the Plymouth Democrat, and one of the best known democratic editors in Indiana, is out after the nomination for Lieutenant-Governor on the next state democratic ticket.

The fact was sprung at the meeting of the Northern Indiana Editorial association at Mishawaka last week. It was talked quietly, however, as Mr. Metsker is feeling his way among the boys. From Mishawaka he went to Fort Wayne and consulted Steve Fleming, the present big boss of the democratic party. He had already consulted several at War saw, Goshen and Elkhart.

It is not known what success the candidacy met with, but it is supposed that since Mr. Metsker is, and has always been, an ardent follower of Tom Taggart, that the invincible Taggart machine will put him under the wire in time to get the nomination against all comers.
